MSG SPHERE

The most talked-about new attraction in Vegas, The Sphere, at over 360 feet tall, is a massive, high-tech entertainment at the Venetian that seamlessly melds state-of-the-art immersive technology with live performances that invite visitors into a futuristic realm with mind-bending experiences. The world's largest spherical structure contains the world's largest high-resolution wraparound screen at 250 feet tall with 1.2 million LEDs. In addition to backing residencies by U2, Dead & Company, and the Eagles with awe-inspiring visuals, the screen provides a great diversity of entertainment, including at sports events, where each fan has internet access and individually-beamed sound at their seat.

ARTE MUSEUM

Arte Museum is an immersive digital art experience at 63 Las Vegas, a new entertainment complex on the corner of Las Vegas Boulevard and Harmon Avenue. The brand's first exhibit has just arrived in the Western Hemisphere for the first time after drawing more than 6 million visitors to five Asian locations. The best of the futuristic presentations housed in the $25 million, two-story, 30,000-square-foot space just steps from the Las Vegas Strip is a digital beach with waves that roll under your feet while the Northern Lights glow overhead. Guests will also experience rooms with flowers, forestry, waterfalls, sunsets, and jungles. The Garden room is an animated art gallery featuring works by the likes of Leonardo Da Vinci, Claude Monet, and Gustav Klimt, and local imagery inspired by the Southwest desert and lights of Las Vegas.

CRASHNBURN SKYDIVING BAR

The Crash N Burn rooftop bar and restaurant in Fremont's Neonopolis offers what it calls "the world's first rooftop open-air skydiving experience." Aero Vegas will launch flyers from above the roof and, similar to indoor skydiving, they'll hover over an open-air wind tunnel, while facing out over downtown Las Vegas. You can also zip line down Fremont Street or duckpin bowl and play vintage video and lawn games throughout the 14,000-square-foot indoor and outdoor venue. Along with a 300-foot-long bar, the restaurant serves burgers, flatbreads, loaded nachos, and a bread pudding dessert.

SWINGERS - CRAZY GOLF

You've heard of mini golf. Now it's time for "crazy golf." The provocatively named Swingers golf course is set to open at Mandalay Bay, offering a fun adults-only take on mini golf with five themed courses over three levels in a 40,000-square-foot space. The idea first became a hit in London, featuring caddies that deliver craft cocktails and street food available for purchase near various holes. Two other U.S. locations are in New York and Washington, D.C.

ATOMIC GOLF

Topgolf proved that driving golf balls could be an all-encompassing social activity that mixes booze, food, and entertainment. Atomic Range follows suit with a similar concept at The Strat. More than 100 bays cover four floors in a massive 99,000-square-foot complex. Order drinks from one of six bars and test your golf skills with 10 putting bays. Book a luxury suite for large parties on the top levels and view the action on a four-story, crystal-clear digital screen. Atomic Range has a prime location alongside Las Vegas Boulevard and a dedicated parking lot.
